We will be having a bible quiz this Thursday over what we have been learning about creation. We will also be having a social studies quiz on the continents and oceans. I will send study guides home tomorrow. Please review and study with your child.

As you know, your child has been checking out books from the library. These books may go home with your child and can be counted as reading minutes in their daily log.

Based on your child's Accelerated Reader results, he or she may be ready to start taking quizzes on the books they are checking out. If they have read the story several times and are ready to quiz on it, please send a note and I will see to it that they take a quiz. If your child is not yet ready to begin taking quizzes, no worries. They have plenty of time. January is my target month to have all my students taking quizzes.

Have a great week!
